PEMBROKE RECLASSIFICATION BILL FAILS

City stands to benefit if switch is approved

BY CARLA JIMENEZ
NEW ERA STAFF WRITER

A state bill that would reclassify the city of Pembroke from sixth class to fifth class did not pass the General Assembly during regular session.

Rep. Myron Dossett, R-Pembroke, and Rep. John Tilley, D-Hopkinsville, sponsored the proposal. According to the Kentucky Constitution, a city must have a population between 1,000 to 2,999 people in order to be considered fifth class, while a sixth class city has a population of 999 or less. As of the 2010 Census, the population of Pembroke was 869.

That may not be accurate though. Kandie Adkinson, the administrative supervisor in the land office division for the Kentucky Secretary of State's office, said that Pembroke expanded its city limits in 2009 and that the annexations have increased the city's population enough to warrant a reclassification. However, that population growth isn't reflected on the 2010 Census.

"Prior to the 2010 Census, Pembroke made a concerted effort to show annexation and they did it in a timely manner," Adkinson said.

In order to be reclassified, a city must petition its representative, who takes the request and writes a bill. Afterward, the bill has to be introduced to the General Assembly, then assigned to a committee. Adkinson said that the Legislative Research Commission rec-

Samantha Martin chased a robber who stole money at knifepoint from Gilyn's Boutique on Wednesday. Martin said she followed him while talking to police on her cell-phone. The police apprehended the robbery suspect on Country Club Drive.

Man accused of robbing 3 stores in 3 days

Samantha Martin, owner of Gilyn's Boutique 2nd Consignment, wasn't about to let a robber run away with her rent money Wednesday morning.

Martin said she was helping a customer at the store, 2100-A Fort Campbell Blvd., at about 11:30 a.m. Wednesday when a "suspicious" man walked in.

The man browsed the shop until the other customer left, Martin said. After the customer left, the man approached her, and Martin remembers saying, "Hi" and asking him if he needed any help.

"He said, 'Yeah you can help me. You can give me everything you got or I'm going to stick you,'" Martin recalled about an hour after the alleged robbery. "And that's when he put the knife to my throat."

Martin said she gave the man a bank bag and opened the cash register for him. After taking about $800, he left the store, got into a green GMC Jimmy and drove off.

However, that wasn't the end of it for the store owner. After watching the man, Jimmy Leon Yokley Jr., 40, leave, she ran out the door, jumped into her car and

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Investigators would be able to easily identify and charge unscrupulous doctors who overprescribe painkillers and anti-anxiety drugs under legislation passed by the House on Wednesday.

The measure was a top priority for Gov. Steve Beshear that he included in a call for a special session that began on Monday.

Within three days of convening, the Democratic-controlled House passed the measure 70-28. It now goes to the Republican-led Senate, where it is expected to undergo significant revisions.

State Rep. John Tilley, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said prescription drug abuse has reached

MARION LEE MOORE

DOVER - Marion Lee Moore, known to friends and family as Lee, passed away at 47 years old, on Tuesday, April 10, 2012, in Dover.

Lee was born in Hopkinsville, Ky., to Carolyn and Joe Moore on Oct. 18, 1964. Though he was a true southerner at heart, he spent most of his life in Dover, where he serviced the community as a hair dresser and most recently, a barber at Village Barber Styling near Rodney Village Shopping Center. He gave his customers the attention they needed to make them feel at home in the barber chair and treated them to both a good haircut and his enthusiastic attitude.

In spending time with Lee, even a couple minutes, one could feel his energy was genuine and sincere. He loved helping people but he lived for his son, Mitchell Lee Moore and was eager to talk sports, mostly baseball and especially, the results and details of Mitchell's games.

He was preceded in death by his father, Joseph Moore Jr.; and grandparents, Ann and Joseph Moore Sr., all of Georgetown. He is survived by his two children, Monique Rivera of New Brunswick, N.J. and Mitchell Moore; his dear friend and the love of his life, Pamela Moore of Dover; his loving family, his mother, Carolyn Moore; and brother, Terry Moore, of Hopkinsville, Ky.; and his sister and close friend Carol Ann Moore Holt and her husband Marty Holt of Cross Plains, Tenn., and her children, Brittany and Katlyn Holt; and many loving aunts, uncles and cousins.

The memorial services were held, Sunday, April 15, 2012, at Torbert Funeral Home.

Donations to offset the cost of the service can be made in Lee's name to Torbert Funeral Home, 61 S. Bradford Street, Dover, DE 19904.

Panetta apologizes for photos with corpses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House and the Pentagon voiced regrets Wednesday for newly published photographs that purport to show U.S. troops posing with the bodies of dead insurgents in Afghanistan, with Defense Secretary Leon Panetta calling them a violation of America's “core values.”

“My apology is on behalf of the Department of Defense and the U.S. government,” Panetta told a news conference following a NATO meeting in Brussels.

At the White House, President Barack Obama's chief spokesman, Jay Carney, echoed Panetta's comments, saying the incident was “reprehensible.”

It was the latest in a series of recent Afghan battlefield embarrassments for the United States, and it came at a time when Washington is still working with President Hamid Karzai in Kabul to smooth over strained relations.

Carney said the picture-taking incident does not represent the standards of the U.S. military and said that Obama believes the situation needs to be investigated and those responsible held accountable. He said he didn't know if the president had seen the photos.

The photos were published in Wednesday's Los Angeles Times. One shows members of the 82nd Airborne Division posing in 2010 with Afghan police and the severed legs of a suicide bomber. The same platoon a few months later was sent to investigate the remains of three insurgents reported to have accidentally blown themselves up — and soldiers again posed and mugged for pho-

HENRY J. PARKER

Henry Jessie “Wax” Parker, 81, East Second Street, died at 3:10 p.m. Saturday, April 14, 2012, at Alvin C. York Veteran's Administration Medical Center, Murfreesboro, Tenn., of natural causes.

Services will be at 11 a.m. Friday at Freeman Chapel CME Church with the Rev. Lisa Balboa officiating.

Burial will be in Kentucky Veterans Cemetery-West with full military honors.

Visitation will be from 5 until 7 p.m. Thursday at Adams and Sons Mortuary.

A native of Trenton, he was born Jan. 4, 1931, the son of the late Ulysses and Susie Dickerson Parker.

He was disabled after having been wounded while serving as an Army corporal during the Korean War where he received a Purple Heart.

He was a member of Lane Tabernacle Baptist Church, where he had formerly taught Sunday school, served as assistant Sunday school superintendent and as an usher.

His wife, Georgia Lorine Parker, preceded him in death in 2009.

Survivors include three sons, Henry Wayne (Tammy) Parker, Murfreesboro, Michael Byron (Vinda Kaye) Parker and Curtis Aundray Parker, both of Hopkinsville; a daughter, Doris L. Cathey, Clarksville, Tenn.; four sisters, Mrs. Charlie (Dolores) Jones, Marjorie Moore, Mrs. John (Irene) Sandifer and Catherine Whyte, all of Louisville; eight grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Dick Clark, America's New Year's host, dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dick Clark, the ever-youthful television host and tireless entrepreneur who helped bring rock 'n' roll into the mainstream on “American Bandstand,” and later produced and hosted a vast range of programming from game shows to the New Year's Eve countdown from Times Square, has died. He was 82.

Spokesman Paul Shefrin said Clark had a heart attack Wednesday morning at Saint John's hospital in Santa Monica, where he had gone the day before for an outpatient procedure.

Clark had continued performing even after he suffered a stroke in 2004 that affected his ability to speak and walk.

Ryan Seacrest, who took over main hosting duties on the countdown show from Clark, said in a statement Wednesday that he was “deeply saddened.”

“I idolized him from the start, and I was graced early on in my career with his generous advice and counsel,” Seacrest said. “He was a remarkable host and businessman and left a rich legacy to television audiences around the world. We will all miss him.”

Long dubbed “the world's oldest teenager” because of his boyish appearance, Clark bridged the rebellious new music scene and traditional show business, and equally comfortable whether chatting about music with Sam Cooke or bantering with Ed McMahon about TV bloopers. He thrived as the founder of Dick Clark Productions, supplying movies, game and music shows, beauty contests and more to TV. Among his credits: “The $25,000 Pyramid,” “TV's Bloopers and Practical Jokes” and the American Music Awards.

Earth Day celebration set for Saturday at HCC

Hopkinsville's annual Earth Day celebration will be Saturday at Hopkinsville Community College. The celebration will be combined this year with the YMCA's Healthy Kids Day event.

The celebration will feature programs on environmentally friendly practices as well as booths with information on recycling, green products and nutrition. HCC's Ag-Tech Club will serve organic food. There will also be live demonstrations by YMCA members as well as presentations on healthy eating and the dangers of drugs, alcohol and inhalants.

The planning committee for this year's event included representatives from Hopkinsville Electric System, the Christian County Cooperative Extension Office and HCC. HES General Manager Austin Carroll said HES customers who bring their electric bill to Saturday's event will receive a free lunch.

Planning Committee Chair Kelly Jackson challenged community members to engage in environmentally friendly practices this week.

"We're challenging the community to ride your bike to work, plant a tree, recycle, take a walk, purchase blocks of green power from HES, or do whatever is representative of the Earth Day Celebration," Jackson said.

YMCA Membership Coordinator Kristin Lilly said Saturday's celebration will include the same features as previous Healthy Kids Day events, such as pony rides, bouncers and soccer games. Lilly thought combining the two events was a good idea.

"We've outgrown our area at the YMCA facilities," she said.

Hopkinsville Mayor Dan Kemp declared this week Environmental Awareness and Healthy Community Week during an announcement Monday at Ruff Park. Kemp said a larger emphasis on public health is critical for Hopkinsville.

"(Hopkinsville) has high rates of obesity and high rates of smoking," Kemp said. "It is critically important that we try to change our culture. Our quality of life in Christian County and Hopkinsville is not what it should be."

Saturday's event will be from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

99 percent political action seminar offered locally through MoveOn.org

BY DENNIS O'NEIL
NEW ERA STAFF WRITER

A training workshop focusing on nonviolent political action was offered Sunday in Hopkinsville through the organization MoveOn.org. The workshop was part of a larger national initiative called the 99% Spring, organized by a collection of liberal organizations to train individuals in political action.

The workshop was offered at the home of John Freer, a MoveOn.org member and organizer. Ten people attended, including representatives from United Auto Workers and the Christian County Democratic Executive Committee. The workshop, which lasted three hours, included several videos on the history of nonviolent political resistance and different methods of political action.

The 99% Spring was initiated in February when more than 70 liberal organizations signed a letter vowing to train 100,000 Americans in methods of nonviolent political action. The letter pinpoints rampant foreclosures, a crumbling educational system and a lack of organized American labor as motivators for the program.

"We are at a crossroads as a country," the letter reads. "We have a choice to make. Greater wealth for a few or opportunity for many. This spring, we will act on that choice and rise up in the tradition of our forefathers and foremothers."

Individuals traveled from as far as Cookeville, Tenn., to attend Sunday's workshop. Sitting in Freer's den, they discussed changes they would like to see in the American political system, including larger emphases on labor reform, bank regulation and human and civil rights.

When the session concluded, the group agreed to reconvene in a few weeks to discuss possible political action projects. Freer couldn't outline any specific action the group might take, but hopes the program will give ordinary citizens a louder voice in the political process.

"I've been fearful that we are losing our democratic republic," said Freer, 74. "I don't think we have any voice anymore. That's abominable to me. That happened on my generation's watch and I hate it like the dickens for my children and grandchildren."

Magistrate suggests pay cut to offset budget woes

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A suggestion by a county official in eastern Kentucky that he and his colleagues take a pay cut in an effort to offset a projected budget shortfall isn't getting much support.

Pike County Magistrate Hilman Dotson made the recommendation at a Tuesday meeting of Fiscal Court. While arguing that magistrates should reopen the county's idled swimming pools, he recommended a 10 percent pay reduction to help offset the expected multi-million-dollar budget shortfall.

Should teachers and students be Facebook friends?

NEW YORK (AP) — Should students and teachers ever be friends on Facebook? School districts across the country, including the nation's largest, are weighing that question as they seek to balance the risks of inappropriate contact with the academic benefits of social networking.

At least 40 school districts nationwide have approved social media policies. Schools in New York City and Florida have disciplined teachers for Facebook activity, and Missouri legislators recently acquiesced to teachers' objections to a strict statewide policy.

In the New York cases, one teacher friended several female students and wrote comments including "this is sexy" under their photos, investigators said. A substitute teacher sent a message to a student saying that her boyfriend did not "deserve a beautiful girl like you."

Such behavior clearly oversteps boundaries, but some teachers say social media — in particular Facebook — can be a vital educational resource if used appropriately, especially because it's a primary means of communication for today's youngsters.

"Email is becoming a dinosaur," said David Roush, who teaches media communications and television production at a Bronx high school. "Letters home are becoming a dinosaur. The old methods of engaging our students and our parents are starting to die."

New York Chancellor Dennis Walcott plans to release social media guidelines this month, saying recently that teachers "don't want to be put in a situation that could either compromise them or be misinterpreted."

Roush does not accept students as friends on his personal Facebook page but has created a separate profile to communicate with them — something that runs afoul of Facebook rules restricting users to a single profile. He used the page to get the word out quickly about a summer internship on a cable-access show, and a student who learned about it from the Facebook post won it.

"If I would have emailed him, if I had tried calling him, he never would have got it," Roush said.

Nkomo Morris, who teaches English and journalism at a high school in Brooklyn, said she has about 50 current and former students as Facebook friends. That could be a problem if the new rules instruct teachers not to friend students.

In that event, "I'd send out a massive message, and I would unfriend them," Morris said.

In the meantime, Morris manages her privacy settings so neither current nor former students see her personal information but do see posts about current events. She also lets students know whether something on their Facebook pages raises a red flag, such as sexual content.

"They're not always as savvy as I am," Morris said. "They haven't really grasped the level of formality out in the real world."

Efforts like New York's have been subject to legal wrangling and resistance from teachers and their advocates.

Missouri legislators last year passed a law that barred teachers from using websites that allow "exclusive access" with students

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nkomo Morris, a teacher at Brooklyn's Art and Media High School, works on her classroom computer on April 4 in New York. Morris, who teaches English and journalism, said she has about 50 current and former students as Facebook friends. That could be a problem if the new rules instruct teachers not to friend students.

18 years old or younger. Teachers complained that they would be banned from Facebook and Twitter.

A judge granted an injunction, declaring that the law "would have a chilling effect" on free-speech rights. The legislature then repealed the restrictions and passed a new law directing school districts to develop their own policies.

Some districts adopted a model policy by the Missouri School Boards Association, decreeing that staff members must use district-approved devices when communicating electronically with students. The guidelines are intended to make it easier for supervisors to monitor teacher-student interactions.

The Missouri State Teachers Association believes some of the local policies are too restrictive. Spokesman Todd Fuller said the association will support its members if they are disciplined under those new rules.

"We're prepared to deal with the first issue where a teacher's rights are being infringed," he said.

Man at helm recounts events leading to crash

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — The man who was at the helm when a boat brought down a span of a Kentucky Lake bridge says he trusted a river pilot's instructions.

According to The Paducah Sun, Capt. John Newland testified Tuesday at a U.S. Coast Guard hearing in Paducah, saying the span he tried to sail under on Jan. 26 was the only one with illuminated channel lighting.

A recording was played at the hearing in which breaking glass could be heard, along with the roar of part of the Eggnor's Ferry Bridge collapsing on the bow.

Before the crash, a voice identified as that of Capt. William Collins, who was giving instructions in the pilot house, was heard telling Newland that the target to aim for was a green navigation light.

Recruitment ads by for-profit colleges targeted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Where do for-profit colleges get the money they spend on all those highway billboards and television and radio ads?

Mostly from the government, at least indirectly. Federal money, most of it through the financial aid that students get, accounts for up to 90 percent of for-profit colleges' revenue — even more in some cases if veterans attend the school on the GI bill.

And while figures vary, some institutions spend a quarter or more of their revenue on recruiting, far more than traditional colleges. In some cases, recruiting expenses approach what these institutions spend on instruction.

A recent Senate report on 15 large, publicly traded for-profit education companies said they got 86 percent of their revenue from taxpayers and have spent a combined $3.7 billion annually on marketing and recruiting.

Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, says the connection is clear: "Their marketing budgets are funded by taxpayers."

On Wednesday, Harkin and Kay Hagan, D-N.C., introduced a bill to try to check the flood of advertising, which has particularly targeted Iraq and Afghanistan veterans for the benefits they receive under the new GI Bill. The measure would prohibit colleges of all kinds from using dollars from federal student assistance programs, including the GI Bill, to pay for advertising and recruiting.

The bill would extend a current rule that prohibits federal dollars from being used for lobbying — though the lobbying budgets of for-profit colleges are tiny compared to what they spend on advertising.

"Today we are sending a strong message to colleges that choose to spend federal dollars on advertising at a time that middle-class students and families are struggling to get ahead: Find the money for marketing elsewhere, not from taxpayers," said Harkin, chairman of the Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions.

The bill faces daunting odds in Congress. But it represents a new tactic in recent efforts by some in Washington to curb aggressive marketing tactics by for-profit schools, particularly toward veterans. Military veterans are particularly attractive recruiting targets because they come with generous federal tuition support and also don't count toward a limit called the "90/10" rule, which requires colleges to get at least 10 percent of their revenue from non-federal sources.

Dossett dislikes special session

But proud of strides made during the regular session

BY CARLA JIMENEZ
NEW ERA STAFF WRITER

Rep. Myron Dossett, R-Pembroke, is working in Frankfort for the special session of the General Assembly — and he'd rather not be.

"It should not have come to this," he said. "It's a lack of leadership, and it's part of the reason the state's in the economic condition it is."

Dossett said he would have gone to the governor and the state speaker of the house "and laid into them so we wouldn't have to go into special session."

But despite his disgruntlement, he remains proud of the work he did during regular session. He's especially proud of passing the synthetic drug legislation with Rep. John Tilley, D-Hopkinsville.

"I'm very proud that John allowed me to be a part of that," he said.

Dossett's also proud of getting rid of regulations to the agricultural economy that would have been burdensome on Kentucky's farmers. He and Sen. Joey Pendleton, D-Hopkinsville, worked to get rid of requiring escorts for agricultural vehicles, such as tractors.

"The regulations ... are burdensome and will strangle the businesses out," he said. "That's something we can't do. We were able to get those regulations taken away."

But for Dossett, Kentucky's job market remains the state's biggest problem. He wants to bring jobs back from overseas and to lure entrepreneurs to Kentucky.

"We've got to do everything in our power to open up the market," he said, "and make sure our people are working."

Competition cuts down Medicare fraud

WASHINGTON (AP) — A yearlong experiment with competitive bidding for power wheelchairs, diabetic supplies and other personal medical equipment produced $200 million in savings for Medicare, and government officials said Wednesday they are expanding the pilot program in search of even greater dividends.

The nine-city crackdown targeting waste and fraud has drawn a strong protest from the medical supply industry, which is warning of shortages for people receiving Medicare benefits and economic hardship for small suppliers.

But the shift to competitive bidding has led to few complaints from those in Medicare, according to a new government report.

The report found only 151 complaints from a total population of 2.3 million Medicare recipients in the nine metropolitan areas, including Miami, Cincinnati and Riverside, Calif.

As a result, the program is expanding to a total of 100 cities next year, along with a national mail order program for diabetes supplies such as blood sugar testing kits. Eventually the whole country will participate.

Medicare traditionally has struggled to manage medical equipment costs. Officials say the program often paid more than private insurers for comparable equipment and was vulnerable to fraud by unscrupulous suppliers ordering expensive but unneeded products for unwitting beneficiaries.

By shifting to competitive bidding with a limited number of approved suppliers in each area, Medicare will save nearly $26 billion from 2013-2022, the government estimates, and reduce costs for seniors without cutting benefits.

"What we see is that costs are lower and there is no impact on the health status of our beneficiaries," said Jonathan Blum, deputy administrator for Medicare.

"This gives us very strong confidence that we can expand the program. To us, this is a clear success."

The home-care supply industry sharply questioned that conclusion.

"With respect to the number of complaints (the report's) information is downright laughable," said Walt Gorski, a senior lobbyist for the American Association for Homecare. "It defies logic."

The group represents suppliers of home health equipment, ranging from oxygen to hospital beds.

The industry says hundreds of economists at academic institutions around the country have concluded that Medicare's competitive bidding model is flawed and could lead to shortages or force beneficiaries to use less desirable cut-rate equipment.

In its report, Medicare said it closely monitored the health of beneficiaries likely to use home equipment in the nine areas involved with the competitive bidding experiment. It then compared the results to data for beneficiaries in other similar areas where competitive bidding has not been instituted yet. Using yardsticks such as emergency room visits and nursing home admissions, it found no significant differences.

"We have not seen any change in health status or access to services once the program went into place," said Blum.

The report said the Medicare consumer hotline received 127,466 calls from beneficiaries about the competitive bidding program during 2011, less than 1 percent of the total volume of calls received. Most involved routine matters, such as locating a supplier.

Medicare defined complaints as dissatisfaction that could not be resolved by a call center operator. It registered 151 complaints for the year, the vast majority in the first six months of the program. Only six complaints were logged in the last three months of the year.

Medicare also called a sample of beneficiaries in areas where there was a sharp drop the quantities of supplies ordered for diabetes testing and for sleep apnea machines. The report said "in virtually every case" the beneficiary reported having more than enough supplies on hand, often several months' worth.

"This would suggest that beneficiaries received excessive replacement supplies before they became medically necessary," according to the report.

The nine metropolitan areas involved in the experiment were Charlotte-Gastonia-Concord (North Carolina and South Carolina); Cincinnati-Middletown (Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana); Cleveland-Elyria-Mentor (Ohio); Dallas-Fort Worth-Arlington (Texas); Kansas City (Missouri and Kansas); Miami-Fort Lauderdale-Pompano Beach and Orlando (Florida); Pittsburgh; and Riverside-San Bernadino-Ontario (Calif.).

Nine categories of medical equipment are included in the program: oxygen supplies, standard power wheelchairs, complex power wheelchairs, mail-order diabetic supplies, tube-feeding supplies and equipment, sleep apnea machines and equipment, hospital beds, walkers, and certain types of mattresses.

"What we see is that costs are lower and there is no impact on the health status of our beneficiaries."

Kentucky's jobless rate drops to 8.6 percent in March

FROM THE KENTUCKY PRESS NEWS SERVICE

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Kentucky's seasonally adjusted preliminary unemployment rate fell to 8.6 percent in March 2012 from a revised 8.7 percent in February 2012, making this the third consecutive month with an unemployment rate below 9 percent, according to the Office of Employment and Training, an agency of the Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet.

The preliminary March 2012 jobless rate was 1.1 percentage points below the 9.7 percent rate recorded for the state in March 2011, according to a state press release.

The U.S. seasonally adjusted jobless rate fell to 8.2 percent in March 2012 from 8.3 percent in February 2012, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

Labor force statistics, including the unemployment rate, are based on estimates and are compiled to measure trends rather than actually to count people working.

In March 2012, Kentucky's civilian labor force was 2,065,493, a decrease of 633 individuals compared to the previous month.

"All signs are pointing to the likelihood that the recovery is here to stay," economist Manoj Shanker of the OET said. "With eight months of declining unemployment rate and steady growth in employment, job prospects in Kentucky are definitely improving."

Kentucky's seasonally adjusted non-farm employment increased by 3,200 jobs in March 2012 from the month before, and by 34,200 positions since March 2011.

The trade, transportation and utilities sector gained 1,900 jobs in March 2012. This is the largest sector in Kentucky with 369,000 positions, and posted the highest month-to-month gain among the 11 sectors. Since March 2011, jobs in this sector have increased by 4,300.

"All signs are pointing to the likelihood that the recovery is here to stay."

Manoj Shanker

Economist for the Office of Employment and Training

Kentucky's leisure and hospitality sector gained 1,800 jobs in March 2012 from a month ago. Since March 2011, the sector has grown by 7,600 positions. Jobs have grown steadily over the last six months in this sector and include arts, entertainment, recreation, accommodation and food services.

"Most of the new jobs created in March were in retail trade and food services," Shanker said in the press release. "As employment picks up across the economy, and there is an uptick in consumer confidence, people are more willing to spend money in both shops and restaurants resulting in added hiring."

The eyes have it

TOM KANE | KENTUCKY NEW ERA
Shirley Moore (left) takes photos of a child's eye Wednesday with a specially designed Polaroid camera. The photos will be reviewed by University of Louisville doctors to determine if the child has a vision problem. Christian McKee (above), 4, listens to a volunteer as he waits to hear if his eye photos were successful.

Club provides screenings for preschoolers

BY TOM KANE
PHOTOJOURNALIST

The Hopkinsville Lions Club is helping diagnose children's eye problems at an early age.

The goal is to screen all preschool children as young as possible, and the club was performing free screenings Wednesday at the Christian County Head Start building in Hopkinsville.

Detecting problems is accomplished by sending photos of children's eyes to the Kentucky Lions Foundation in Louisville. From there, doctors at the University of Louisville inspect the photos for problems that need immediate treatment.

Some of the conditions that can be detected are:

- crossed eyes, however slight
- lazy eye
- farsightedness
- nearsightedness
- astigmatism

Detection is accomplished with a specially designed Polaroid camera. The camera photographs the children's eyes once horizontally and once vertically. The pair of photos are what the Louisville doctors use for diagnosing eye problems.

When a problem is detected, the Lions Club helps the parents find treatment for the child locally. If there is a financial problem, the club directs the family to the Kentucky Lions Foundation in Louisville.

"Fortunately, we haven't had any children with problems who have financial limitations," Shirley Moore said, noting that all the local parents have been able to pay for treatment.

"Our goal is to test all preschoolers," said Jack Jones of the Lions Club.

Judge: Accused killer competent to stand trial

BY BENJAMIN JOUBERT
NEW ERA STAFF WRITER

Attorneys set the trial date for a man charged with shooting and killing a 38-year-old during a drug dispute in 2010.

Seth "Bubba" Wallen, 21, allegedly shot Corey Trice in October 2010 and was arrested two days after Trice died. Wallen told police he shot Trice over a dispute about a $1,200 drug exchange.

On Wednesday morning, Christian Circuit Court Judge John Atkins asked Wallen's defense attorney, Rick Boling, and Commonwealth's attorney Lynn Pryor how long the trial would last. The brunt of the evidence could be presented in two days, Pryor said. Atkins set a three-day trial for June 18.

In March, Wallen received a two-month psychiatric evaluation at the LaGrange facility. Greg Perri, a doctor at LaGrange, told Atkins that Wallen scored an 82 on an IQ test. The average is 100, Perri said.

Even so, Perri said that Wallen did not show signs of psychosis or retardation. Based on the evaluation, Atkins ruled that Wallen was competent to stand trial.

Trailer, $1,200 worth of road cones, money reported stolen

FROM NEW ERA STAFF REPORTS

A 20-foot trailer, $1,200 in orange traffic cones and traffic signs were reported stolen by a North Main Street construction company Tuesday afternoon.

Many G. Allinder, of Rogers Group, said that sometime in the last couple of days someone stole a trailer parked at Old South BBQ and More on Bell Station Road in Oak Grove, according to a Christian County Sheriff's Department report.

The trailer was being stored there temporarily. Allinder told deputies. The stolen items are valued at $5,500, deputies said. No suspects are listed in the report.

In a burglary report, a 21st Street woman told police that someone broke into her home and stole nearly $1,000 in cash.

Shatika Brime said that someone broke a window on her front door on Tuesday, entered her bedroom, and stole the cash. The charge listed is second-degree burglary. A suspect is listed in the report.

Man arrested at hospital after allegedly threatening deputy

A Cadiz man was arrested Tuesday night after allegedly threatening to kill a Trigg County Sheriff's deputy. Eric S. Richardson, 31, while at the Trigg County Hospital emergency room, said he was going to kill a deputy and attempted to assault the nursing staff, according to a TCSO news release.

He was charged with terroristic threatening and third-degree assault.

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Democratic Gov. Steve Beshear signed off a $4.5 billion road construction plan Wednesday after using his line-item veto power to remove nearly $50 million in projects slated for a largely rural district represented by his chief Republican rival, Senate President David Williams.

The action triggered sharp exchanges between the two men who faced each other last year in a gubernatorial election, but it also paved the way for a special legislative session to conclude this week.

"Our review of the road plan legislation over the last few days revealed that Sen. Williams took extraordinary steps to enrich his district at the expense of other priority projects in the state," Beshear said in a statement.

Williams told reporters that isn't true.

"I think he's allowed his personal anger and vitriolic comments to go beyond the bounds of normal reason in this thing," Williams said of Beshear.

Williams said Beshear's action on the road plan cleared the way for lawmakers to pass a transportation budget this week and wrap up a special legislative session that is costing taxpayers more than $60,000 a day. Williams said he believes the special session is now on pace to conclude Friday.

Vetoed by the governor were 10 projects in Williams' district ranging in cost from $777,000 to $11.5 million.

Beshear has aimed sharp criticism at Williams in recent days, charging that his unwillingness to pass a transportation budget in the closing days of a regular session that ended last week led to the special session that has cost $180,000 so far.

The Senate had refused to pass the transportation budget until after Beshear signed the road construction plan. Neither side was willing to budge before time ran out in the regular session.

Williams contends that Beshear doesn't have line-item veto power on the road construction plan. But Williams said he has no plans to mount a court challenge to try to restore the projects in his district.

"It's an extremely partisan and vindictive move by the governor," Williams said. "I've learned to expect that. And it challenges my capacity to be able to forgive, and I do forgive the governor for what he's done to the people of my district. And I hope they can forgive him. And I hope that this is the final act of political vengeance that he tries to extract against me."

As leaders in their respective parties, Williams and Beshear have been at odds for years. Beshear has pushed

HES honored with national award

Hopkinsville Electric System recently earned the American Public Power Association's Electric Utility Safety Award. The company earned third place in the category for utilities with 60,000 to 109,999 worker hours.

The company won the award alongside its telecommunications subsidiary, Energy-Net Services. More than 275 utilities entered the annual contest. Entrants were judged for the most incident-free records during 2011.

JSMC recognizes long-time volunteers

As part of National Volunteer Week, Jennie Stuart Medical Center has commended a dozen volunteers for service milestones.

■ Dorothy Cook, Tula Harper, Pat Holmes, Rebecca Noel and Virginia Ogg were recognized for 20 years of service.

■ Robert Roach was recognized for 15 years of service.

■ Robert Boyd, Wayne Clark and Holland Garnett were recognized for 10 years of service.

■ Betty Pyle, Luko Sato and Gerald Smith were recognized for five years of service. The hospital also recognized several volunteers with more than 20 years of service, including Sarah Lewis, 33 years; Marie Meece, 27 years; Jane Wright, 24 years; and Mary Ancil and Marjorie Means, 22 years.

The hospital also recognized its longest-serving volunteer, Helen Bradley, who has been working with the hospital for 37 years.

The volunteers were recognized during a hospital luncheon on Monday. According to a news release from the hospital, volunteers greet patients in the emergency department, transport and escort patients within the hospital, deliver flowers and mail and staff the gift shop.

SUSPECT: Man, 40, accused of robbing 3 stores in 3 days followed him onto 21st Street.

Martin said that at one point during the ensuing chase, she rear-ended the Jimmy but didn't hit it hard enough to do any damage to her car. Relaying information to 911 dispatchers the entire time, she continued to tail the man, who turned onto Fort Campbell Boulevard and drove to Nelson Drive.

"I was worried about finding out where he was going so I could tell police so they could get my money back," she said. "Because I have to pay my store rent."

Martin followed the man onto Country Club Lane where Hopkinsville police and Christian County sheriff's deputies caught up to the Jimmy.

Yokley, of Hopkinsville, was arrested and charged with three counts of first-degree burglary and one count of fleeing police, according to a Hopkinsville police report. Yokley also allegedly admitted to robbing the Kangaroo Express on North Main Street on Monday and Great Clips on Fort Campbell Boulevard on Tuesday.

All three robberies were committed by a tall man with a steak knife, according to police. Yokley is 6 feet, 4 inches tall and weighs 160 pounds, the report said.

Martin said nothing like this has ever happened to her before and she's just glad police arrested the suspect from all three robberies and business can go back to normal.

"Yeah, it was pretty scary and I was pretty nervous, but his knife wasn't very big," Martin said.

John Godsey contributed to this report.

RECLASSIFICATION: City may benefit if switch is approved recommended that Pembroke be reclassified, but when the bill was brought to the local government committee, it remained there until the end of the regular session and did not make it through.

Rep. Myron Dossett said that the bill was filed a little later than he wished.

"I'll reintroduce that one next year," he said.

Pembroke would receive several benefits if it is reclassified as a fifth-class city. One of the advantages would allow city's police officers to investigate incidents outside city limits.

"We've seen so many break-ins," Dossett said. "It was just something we were looking at to help."

Additionally, Dossett said that being a fifth-class city would allow Pembroke to receive more money and grants from the state.

Both Adkinson and Dossett believe that there's a strong case that Pembroke will be reclassified next year, despite the official population being less than what is required for sixth-class cities.

"I would try again next year," Adkinson said.

KENTUCKY BRIEF

2 charged with putting 6-year-old into dryer

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Two northern Kentucky men have been indicted on charges that they forced a 6-year-old girl into a clothes dryer during a birthday party and turned the dryer on, burning the child's back. A Mason County grand jury charged 21-year-old Corey R. Horsley and 18-year-old Justin Sanders with second-degree criminal abuse and first-degree wanton endangerment on Friday. Deputy Circuit Clerk Mary Berry said arraignment had not been held and no lawyers were noted.

PRESCRIPTION: Drug bill passes House in 3 days epidemic proportions in Kentucky, where more people are dying from overdoses than from car wrecks — nearly 1,000 per year.

"We know that we will lose three people today, and, every day that we won't act, we'll lose three more people to prescription overdose deaths," Tilley told fellow lawmakers Wednesday.

The measure would require all physicians to tap into the state's prescription monitoring system to determine if patients seeking painkillers or anti-anxiety drugs have recently gotten similar medications from other doctors. Investigators from the attorney general's office also would monitor the prescribing practices of doctors, allowing quick investigations into questionable behavior.

The Kentucky Medical Association opposes the House measure, citing the "broad and overarching authority" given to the attorney general to gain access to what members believe should be private medical information.

The KMA also objected to a provision that would require each doctor in the state to pay a fee of up to $50 a year to the attorney general's office to maintain the drug monitoring system.

A bloc of GOP lawmakers who opposed the measure raised concerns about investigators from the attorney general office's essentially looking over the shoulders of the state's physicians.

They argued it could negatively affect patients who have a legitimate need for painkillers or anti-anxiety drugs.

State Rep. David Floyd, R-Bardonia, said putting law enforcement in charge of a drug monitoring program that has always been under the auspices of a health services agency is objectionable.

"The underlying assumption is that for every physician who prescribes you are under suspicion," Floyd said. "Every patient who wants a prescription for hydrocodone, OxyContin, you are under suspicion."

CHIEF SPORT OF ANCIENT MAYANS WAS POK-A-TOK, A GAME SOMEWHAT SIMILAR TO BASKETBALL. EACH SIDE STRUGGLED TO GET A RUBBER BALL THROUGH A VERTICAL STONE RING ON THE WALL. RELIEF CARVINGS ON THE WALLS SHOW POK-A-TOK TO HAVE BEEN QUITE VIOLENT AND AT TIMES EVEN DEADLY. SCIENTISTS BELIEVE, ALTHOUGH IT HAS NOT BEEN PROVED, THAT THE PENALTY FOR ALL LOSING TEAM'S MEMBERS WAS DEATH BY DECAPITATION.

Boehner: Obama has ‘checked out’

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker John Boehner said Wednesday that President Barack Obama “checked out” last Labor Day and has been running for reelection, rather than governing, ever since.

“He’s spent the last six months campaigning from one end of the country to the other, instead of working with members of both political parties here in Washington to address the serious challenges that our country faces. He’s shrinking from his responsibility to lead, and not having any courage to help tackle these problems,” the Ohio Republican told reporters at his weekly news conference.

Boehner’s tough talk came a day after he and his Senate counterpart, Kentucky Republican Mitch McConnell, endorsed presumptive Republican presidential nominee Mitt Romney and signaled to the GOP that the time had come to unite behind the former Massachusetts governor. But Boehner suggested Wednesday that any party remains fragile less than seven months before the Nov. 6 presidential and congressional elections.

Did he have any advice for Newt Gingrich or Ron Paul, who are still in the GOP presidential race?

“No,” the speaker replied, calling on the next questioner.

Moving on has been the party’s theme ever since Romney’s primary rival, former Sen. Rick Santorum, formally ended his long-shot bid last week. Santorum since has declined several opportunities to endorse Romney and rally conservatives to the presumptive nominee’s campaign. In a telephone call with supporters on Monday, Santorum said he’ll make that decision in the next two weeks.

Republicans on Capitol Hill, meanwhile, were readying their message for a general election that all sides believe will turn on the economic recovery.

Boehner, who will chair the Republican National Convention in late August, complained that Obama’s White House issues veto threats without discussion on such matters as the Keystone XL pipeline and small business tax cuts. The House is voting on both this week in efforts, majority Republicans say, to kindle job creation.

“There’s no conversation, there’s no engagement,” from the White House, Boehner said. “All we’re left with is moving our own ideas through the regular order and through the regular process here in Congress.”

A White House spokesman did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

ROAD: Beshear cuts $50 million from road plan unsuccessfully to oust Williams as Senate president by trying to elect enough Democrats to overturn the GOP majority. Beshear has even appointed Republican senators to lucrative positions outside the Legislature to create potential openings for Democrats.

Williams has survived despite Beshear’s efforts. Williams’ supporters see the governor’s latest action as another attempt to weaken the Burkesville lawyer who has been Senate president for more than a decade.

Beshear insisted in his statement that his vetoes of Williams’ projects were done in the interest of fairness.

“Sen. Williams has essentially moved all his district’s road projects to the front of the line, forcing other projects that the Transportation Cabinet and other legislators considered high-priority to wait until additional funding becomes available,” Beshear said. “It’s unfair to the citizens, and it’s unfair to the rest of the lawmakers whose districts will suffer.”

Earlier Wednesday, the House passed a transportation budget that would fund the road construction plan, which includes widening to six lanes a dangerous stretch of Interstate 65 where 11 people died in a crash two years ago.

That massive spending plan also includes money for expanding airports, dredging river ports and building bridges, including the state’s single largest project: $2.6 billion for two bridges across the Ohio River in Louisville.

State Rep. Sannie Overly, chairwoman of the House Budget Subcommittee on Transportation, said the massive spending plan doesn’t meet all the state’s needs, but it does provide funding for two years’ worth of badly needed construction projects.

“We all know there are many more transportation needs in our state than there are transportation dollars to take care of those needs,” said Overly, D-Paris.

The House passed the spending plan 96-2. It now goes to the Senate for consideration.

Lawmakers have been rushing the measure through the House in hopes of wrapping up a special legislative session quickly.

House Speaker Greg Stumbo said Wednesday he remains optimistic that the spending plan can be passed by the Senate and sent to Beshear by Friday.

The measure sets aside $200 million to widen I-65, where numerous fatal traffic accidents have occurred in recent years. A crash on a rural stretch of the highway near Munfordville in 2010 killed 11 people, 10 of them members of a Mennonite family and a truck driver whose tractor-trailer crossed the median and struck their van.

Stan Lampe, president of Kentuckians for Better Transportation, heralded the highway appropriations bill Tuesday as a measure that will improve all modes of travel in the state.

Lampe said the bill includes $1 million to dredge silt that is clogging up Kentucky’s river ports, $3.2 million to upgrade railroad crossings around the state, and $10 million to improve more than 50 of the state’s smaller airports.

Budgeting has been one of the more time-consuming chores this year for Kentucky lawmakers, who passed the $19 billion state government operating budget in late March. That budget includes sharp cuts to most government agencies, leaves employees without pay raises and erases a planned cost-of-living increase from the monthly pension checks of retirees.

The measure also includes 8.4 percent cuts to most government agencies and programs because of lingering financial woes brought on by the recession. Those cuts will account for nearly $300 million in savings.

BRIEFS: Commerce Center to host time management training session

Time management training Tuesday at commerce center

There will be a training session on time management from 7:30 to 9 a.m. Tuesday at the Hopkinsville-Christian County Commerce Center, 2800 Fort Campbell Blvd. Kanya Allen from Hopkinsville Community College will be the event’s speaker.

The seminar will teach attendees effective methods of time management, how to identify time wasters and ways to organize time using different resources.

The session is $15 per person and includes breakfast. Those interested should register by Friday by calling Stephanie McQueen at 270-885-9096.

Planetarium manager to field questions about new system

Golden Pond Planetarium Manager Ross Workman will answer questions about the facility’s new digital projection system, valued at $150,000, from 4 to 7 p.m. today.

Samples of new full-dome planetarium programs will be presented at the event. The new system was secured through community donations by Friends of LBL.

LBL to close Bacon Creek area after recent wind storms

Wind storms in the last two years have bent and knocked down trees throughout Land Between the Lakes’ Bacon Creek Backcountry area, the park announced. Fearing for visitors’ safety, the park will close the area indefinitely beginning April 30.

The park will also close the Bacon Creek Boat Ramp, which has eroded because of drainage problems and become difficult to use, according to an LBL news release.

Visitors can still access Lake Barkley via Fords Bay, south of Bacon Creek off of Road 347, and Devils Elbow Boat Ramp, north of Bacon Creek near Kentucky 80, according to the release.

Bank names scholarships after local mother, son

This year Heritage Bank is dedicating its scholarships for local high school seniors to Fannie Louise Maddux and her son, Rich Maddux, to honor the pair for their involvement in Christian County’s public schools.

The bank will offer scholarships to six seniors this year. Students at all Christian County high schools may apply, according to a news release from the bank.

Fannie Louise Maddux, a clinical social worker at Western State Hospital, was the first woman elected to Hopkinsville’s City Council in 1973. She served on the Christian County School Board for 12 years, and she has also chaired the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence and served on the Early Childhood Task Force, according to the release.

Rich Maddux, president and CEO of Propulsys, Inc., serves on the Workforce Education Development Partnership.

Head Start screenings set for the last weeks of April

Preschool screenings for an income and disability based preschool program for children 6-months-old to 4-years-old will take place the last weeks of April.

Christian County Head Start will hold screenings from 9 to 11 a.m. and 1-3 p.m. on April 20 and 27. Parents are asked to bring a child’s birth certificate, Social Security card, medical or insurance card and proof of household income to complete an application, according to a Head Start news release.

Anyone with questions is asked to call Beth Krygoski, family advocate assistant, at 270-707-0740.

The screening’s purpose will be to find students for the 2012-13 school year.

Prescription medication collection set for April 28

Kentucky State Police are encouraging local residents to bring their expired or unwanted prescription drugs to the KSP post in Madisonville on April 28.

For the fourth time since 2010, KSP is partnering with the Drug Enforcement Administration in a nationwide effort to purge people’s homes of potentially dangerous drugs.

“The unique aspect of this initiative is that it is free and anonymous,” KSP Commissioner Rodney Brewer said in a news release. He said KSP will not ask for participants’ IDs.

The KSP post is on the Western Kentucky Parkway. Personnel will collect prescriptions from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. April 28.

Fort Campbell honors woman for her volunteerism

Fort Campbell celebrated National Volunteer Week by honoring Debra Wagoner for her dedication to the USO. She has volunteered for more than 350 hours this year welcoming soldier and families onto the base, according to a USO news release.

“Wagoner treats soldiers as if they were her own,” the release states. Four of Wagoner’s five children are in the military. She moved from Texas to be with her daughter at Fort Campbell, according to the release.

“I treat soldiers with kindness and respect in hopes that someone is doing the same for my kids,” Wagoner said in the release.

The USO is supported heavily by volunteers.

Summitt steps aside

BY TERESA M. WALKER
AP SPORTS WRITER

Pat Summitt, who won more games than anyone in NCAA college basketball history, stepped down Wednesday as coach of the Tennessee Lady Vols, less than eight months after revealing she had early-onset dementia.

"I've loved being the head coach at Tennessee for 38 years, but I recognize that the time has come to move into the future and to step into a new role," the 59-year-old Hall of Famer said in a statement issued by the school.

Longtime assistant Holly Warlick will take over for Summitt, who will become head coach emeritus.

A news conference is scheduled Thursday afternoon at the school in Knoxville.

"She is an icon who does not view herself in that light, and her legacy is well-defined."

Dave Hart
Tennessee athletic director

When the Lady Vols lost in a regional final to eventual national champion Baylor, Warlick's tears were a telltale sign of how draining the season had been and also that it likely was Summitt's last game.

"She is an icon who does not view herself in that light, and her legacy is well-defined and everlasting," athletic director Dave Hart said. "Just like there will never be another John Wooden, there will never be another Pat Summitt. I look forward to continuing to work with her in her new role. She is an inspiration to everyone."

Summitt will report to Hart in her new role while assisting the program she guided to eight national titles since taking over in 1974.

Tennessee said that Summitt's responsibilities will include helping with recruiting, watching practice, joining staff meetings, helping coaches analyze practice and games and advising the Southeastern Conference on women's basketball issues and mentoring players.

Can Harrow lead Wildcats to 3rd straight Final Four?

Last week, I said if Marquis Teague decided to bolt Kentucky after his freshman year and join his brother, Atlanta Hawks point guard Jeff Teague, at the NBA ranks, the Wildcats will be without a point guard heading into the 2012-13 season.

Judging by the explosion of emails in my inbox, I guess I have some explaining to do, huh?

What I should have said was if Marquis Teague leaves, the national champs and head coach John Calipari yet again will begin a new campaign without a proven point guard and floor general.

Kentucky underclassmen Anthony Davis, Michael-Kidd Gilchrist, Terrence Jones, Doron Lamb and, yes, Teague announced Tuesday night that they will forego the remainder of their respective college careers and declare for this summer's NBA draft.

Now that Teague has moved on, North Carolina State transfer Ryan Harrow will assume the role as the Wildcats' lead guard.

There has been a lot of excitement over how good Harrow is and will be for Kentucky next season. But the reality is we don't know how great of an impact he will have.

Harrow was rated as the sixth-best point guard in what was a loaded 2010 high school senior class. The 6-foot-2, 175-pound Marietta, Ga., native was ranked ahead of Kendall Marshall (North Carolina) and Aaron Craft (Ohio State).

Harrow decided to accept a scholarship offer to N.C. State where he was supposed to be one of the key contributors to a stellar recruiting class that would send the Wolfpack to the top of the ACC and save then head coach Sidney Lowe's job in the process.

But instead, N.C. State stumbled to a 15-16 record and a 10th-place finish in the league during the 2010-11 season.

Harrow had trouble living up to the hype, going in and out of the starting lineup, missing time due to injury and illness, and averaging 9.3 points and 3.3 assists per game as a freshman.

When Lowe resigned after the underachieving year, Harrow decided to take his talents elsewhere. The once highly sought after guard chose to transfer to Kentucky instead of in-state rival Louisville, Georgia or Texas.

While Harrow was on the bench for Kentucky this past season, N.C. State, under first-year head coach Mark Gottfried, reached the Sweet 16 where the Wolfpack nearly upset eventual national champion runner-up Kansas.

Though we don't know how Harrow will turn out for the Wildcats, we do know Calipari works magic with point guards.

First there was Derrick Rose. Then there were Tyreke Evans, John Wall and Brandon Knight.

Falcons shock Hoptown

FROM NEW ERA STAFF REPORTS

Pedro Hernandez wasn't born the last time the Fort Campbell Falcons won a district baseball game.

But Wednesday night, the Falcons' ace tossed a five-hitter and sent host Fort Campbell to a 3-0 victory over Hopkinsville to put an end to a 19-year district drought.

It is the first time the Falcons have won a district game since 1993, Fort Campbell coach Kenny Caver said.

"It (win) gives the kids a lot of confidence and it's a big burden off our shoulders," said Caver.

Fort Campbell (7-8, 1-2) scored two runs in the bottom of the first inning and it would be all Hernandez would need the rest of the way. He struck out eight and walked two while picking up the victory.

Hernandez also went 2-for-3 at the plate with a RBI.

The loss dropped Hoptown out

HHS's Smith signs with Lincoln Trail

BY KEITH JENKINS
NEW ERA ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

Laurence Smith didn't see much playing time through his first three seasons with the Hopkinsville High School basketball team.

In order to change that in his senior year and be the leader the Tigers needed, Smith knew he would need to commit himself.

"He came to me last March and said, 'Coach, I want to do whatever it takes to get on that court and stay on that court,'" Hopkinsville coach Tim

Former CCHS star Isom earns honor

University of Evansville baseball sophomore and former Christian County High School star Cole Isom has been named the Missouri Valley Conference Pitcher of the Week, announced by the league office Monday.

It is the first time in his career that Isom has earned the honor.

The left-handed starter threw a three-hit, complete-game gem and helped Evansville to a 4-1 victory over Wichita State last Friday.

The southpaw struck out a career-high 11 batters in his first Valley victory of the season and did not allow a hit until the seventh inning. Isom also had a shutout into the ninth, giving up just a solo shot.

Isom (2-4) lowered his season earned run average to 3.75.

Austin Peay signs guard from Alabama

Austin Peay State University has signed A.J. Lynch, a 6-foot-2 guard from Mobile, Ala.

Lynch averaged 18 points and 10 rebounds and four assists last season for Blount High School.

The Governors' other incoming freshmen include 6-5 guard Corey Arentsen, of Breese, Ill., 6-7 forward Preston Herring, of Lester, Ala., and 6-8 center Chris Horton, of Decatur, Ga.

Brown has serious interest in SMU

DALLAS (AP) — Larry Brown is serious about getting back to coaching and the vacancy at SMU.

Brown said Wednesday that he hasn't yet been offered the job, but had spoken again with SMU athletic director Steve Orsini since they first met on Monday.

The 71-year-old Hall of Fame coach said he expected his long-time agent, Joe Glass, to have further conversations with Orsini.

"They haven't offered me the job, I haven't accepted the job, and I would never do it without Joe's blessing," Brown told The Associated Press.

"I think before anything happens, Steve would probably have to have his blessing from his president. That's where we are."

SMU, which is moving from Conference USA to the much tougher Big East in 2013, fired Matt Doherty last month after six seasons. The Mustangs haven't won an NCAA tournament game since 1988, the year Brown led Kansas to the national championship in his last season as a college coach.

Uthoff, Wisc. at odds over potential transfer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jarrod Uthoff is scheduled to meet with Wisconsin officials today, hoping to resolve a dispute over restrictions the school has placed on the freshman forward's list of potential transfer destinations.

Uthoff said school officials have notified him that he is not allowed contact with several of the high-profile programs he had hoped to speak to about a potential transfer. Uthoff is appealing the school's decision.

"I just want to explore my options," Uthoff said Wednesday evening, in a telephone interview with The Associated Press.

Uthoff's dispute with Wisconsin took an odd turn Wednesday when The Gazette of Cedar Rapids, Iowa reported that school officials had misplaced a letter he was required to file to appeal the decision.

NHL

Nashville Predators goalie Pekka Rinne deflects a shot during the third period of Game 4 of an NHL Stanley Cup first-round playoff series against the Detroit Red Wings on Tuesday in Detroit.

Rinne gets chance to rest

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The break in the NHL playoff schedule is giving Predators goaltender Pekka Rinne a little rest. Now his teammates want to give him a chance to catch his breath against the Detroit Red Wings.

Rinne can use the break.

He has stopped 35 or more shots in each Nashville win and is the main reason the Predators are up 3-1 in the first-round Western Conference series, putting the Red Wings on the brink of elimination.

"He seems to be on top of the game when he gets a lot of shots," Nashville captain Shea Weber said of Rinne. "We don't want to give up that many shots."

Rinne wasn't the only player taking a break Wednesday, both the Predators and the Red Wings took the extra time to regroup before Friday night's Game 5. But Rinne may have needed the day off the most after stopping the first 29 shots he faced in a 3-1 win Tuesday night.

"We got outplayed the

first two periods and just kind of hung around," Nashville center David Legwand said. "We hung around, and Pekka kept us in it. We came up big in the third period. That's fortunate for us. We're OK with that. He did a great job for us."

Legwand said Pekka has been the difference in the series.

The Red Wings agree.

They have peppered Rinne with pucks from the start. Not that facing shots bothers Rinne after facing more during the regular season than any other goalie in the league. He has made saves of 35 and 41 before making 40 more Tuesday night in a 3-1 victory, stopping 130 of the 138 shots faced in this series for a .942 save percentage.

Now the Predators want to spend more time on the other end of the ice to keep the Red Wings from peppering their 6-foot-5 goalie more and give him a little rest.

"They were shooting until their arms got tired last night in the first two periods," Legwand said. "We kind of settled down a little bit in the third and things were pretty even. But being in their end and winning more draws and doing those things will help us a little bit."

Nashville coach Barry Trotz said they don't want to give up as many chances as they did. Staying out of the penalty box will be key after the Predators put Detroit on the power play seven times with the Red Wings' lone goal coming on the man advantage.

"That's discipline and details," Trotz said.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

FOOD: Can Harrow lead UK to 3rd straight Final Four?

All were great, one-and-done college point guards under Calipari and are building impressive NBA careers. But it wasn't until Teague did Calipari finally capture that elusive national championship.

What made Teague work was he realized he didn't have to score 20-plus points a night like the others. He didn't have to be a finalist for the Bob Cousy Award, which is presented to the nation's top point guard. He didn't have to be an All-American. He just needed to keep his turnovers down, take what opposing defenses give him and make sure the ball was where it needed to be.

Teague figured it all out just in time for the Wildcats to hoist title No. 8.

Like Teague, Harrow will be asked to distribute the ball to a group of high-flying, high-scoring talent. The problem though is this group will be even younger than last season's and will rely heavily on him.

Will Harrow be able to handle the pressure? We'll see.

This is Food For Thought, you do the dishes.

Biffle re-energized, on top early in NASCAR season

BY STEPHEN HAWKINS
AP SPORTS WRITER

Biffle gave Jack Roush his first NASCAR season title in 2000 by winning the Trucks Series, two years after he was the rookie of the year. Then came the natural progression to the Nationwide Series, where Biffle won another rookie of the year award and followed immediately with the 2002 season championship before moving up again.

A decade later, Biffle is still trying to become the first driver to complete the NASCAR title trio.

This could finally be the year for the re-energized Biffle, who is coming off a victory at Texas that reinforced his standing as the early-season Sprint Cup points leader.

"When I moved from the Trucks Series to Nationwide, it was a huge step. It was much, much harder. And when I moved from the Nationwide to the Cup Series, I had no idea that the competition was going to be what it was," Biffle said. "I knew it was going to be hard. But this year is my year."

Biffle's fifth top-five finish in seven races this season came in the fastest Cup race ever in Texas and snapped his 49-race winless drought. With only two early cautions, and 234 consecutive green-flag laps to end the race, he got a big boost in the pits from crew chief Matt Puccia and the rest of his team at the 1 1/2-mile, high-banked track.

"That gives me huge confidence," Biffle said. "I know that from about the third race, that these guys, the guys that Matt had put together, we kind of held the handcuffs on them a little bit last year until we got to the end of the season, and he re-vamped the entire team over the winter. I really, really like my guys."

Puccia, who like Biffle worked his way up through the Roush organization, replaced Greg Erwin midway through last season. The No. 16 Roush Fenway Ford had its only three poles of the season after that, but wasn't enough to keep Biffle from finishing 16th in points, his worst since 2004 in his second full Cup season.

SMITH: Hoptown senior signs letter

Haworth said of Smith.

The 6-foot-6 Smith went on to play in all 35 games for the Tigers in 2011-12, being an anchor inside at center and helping Hopkinsville to a 32-3 record, the District 8 and Region 2 championships and its first state tournament berth since 2003.

"It took coming into practice, going hard, putting in all you got and working hard as a team," Smith said. "Everything has come out for the better."

In front of his family, friends and coaching staff Wednesday, Smith signed a national letter of intent to play for head coach Mike Ray at Lincoln Trail College, an Illinois Eastern Community College in Robinson, Ill.

"The first thing we looked at is Laurence as a person," said Ray, who attended the signing. "What a great job his mother and family have done with him. He's just a super person. Beyond that, we want a student. We want somebody that's going to go to class. We want somebody that we know that's going to graduate in two years, and I think Laurence will be in Division I somewhere playing in two years."

In more than 20 years of coaching, Ray has helped send more than 100 players on to Division I universities, including former Clarksville High School and UNLV standout Shawn Marion.

"He's got the ability," Ray said of Smith. "The good Lord gave him a good body, a good frame and a good work ethic. We just have to develop that. Offensively, I think he can become a big part of what we're wanting to do. I think he's very good block to block, down around the basket."

"The sky's the limit for him. He'll become whatever he chooses to become. If he wants to come up and work hard, I see great things for Laurence."

Smith, who averaged 6.7 points and 4.0 rebounds a game during the 2011-12 campaign, said he plans to major in business.

of first place in the district standings. University Heights Academy leads the district with a 2-0 mark. Hopkinsville is now 9-8 overall and 2-1 in the district standings. Christian County is 0-2 in league play.

Hopkinsville and Fort Campbell play again today at Tiger Stadium and Caver knows Hoptown will be looking for revenge.

"There is still a lot of baseball to be played and we can't settle for this win," Caver said. "They're going to come out hungry tomorrow."

Fort Campbell added a solo run in the fifth inning off Gus Sholar, who scattered six hits and struck out three despite taking the loss.

"Hopefully, we learned we can play with some of these bigger teams that used to beat up on us," Caver said. "If we field the ball well — and they hit the ball hard at us but we were able to field it — if we field it well we are a pretty good team."

Matt Stevenson led Hopkinsville at the plate with a double and single.

Kuchar could seize on lackluster Open field

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Remembering the Alamo at the Texas Open is easy, thanks to the giant photo backdrop behind the 18th tee.

The turnout, on the other hand, is somewhat forgettable.

The Texas Open has moved around on the PGA calendar and is now at a new course, TPC San Antonio, in hopes of luring golf's bigger names. Matt Kuchar, two weeks after his near miss at the Masters, headlines a lackluster field that Johnson Wagner called even weaker than usual.

It's a disappointing truth for a tournament that is eager for a bigger profile, and will get another shot next year when the PGA moves the Texas Open date for the fourth time in five years, this time to right before the Masters.

EASY FIX FOR A TIME-TRAVELING CAR

Peabody Award-winning National Public Radio stars Tom and Ray Magliozzi take the fear out of car repair and find the fun in engine failure each week in "Click and Clack Talk Cars." They took their nicknames from the clicketyclack sound made by aging autos.

Dear Tom and Ray:

My car time-travels into the future. I have a 2004 Volvo XC70 station wagon (I know it's dowdy, but it's better than a minivan, right?) that for some reason does not keep proper time. I can set the clock to the correct time, and within days it will be running fast. Within two months, the clock is fast by 20 minutes. I can understand losing time because of a weak battery or something, but advancing in time? Any thoughts? OK, let me clarify that: Any thoughts pertaining to my question? -- Lisa

TOM: We actually do have a few of those, Lisa.

RAY: If you're the kind of person who is chronically late, you may have a spouse who is surreptitiously nudging your clock ahead in an attempt to get you to be on time.

TOM: Several of my ex-wives used to try that on me.

RAY: Oh, I don't think they wanted you to be on time. They were just trying to make the day of the divorce settlement come sooner!

TOM: Most likely, Lisa, the clock itself is faulty. And, unfortunately, the clock in this car is part of the instrument cluster.

RAY: And when you find out that in order to replace this clock, you have to replace the whole instrument cluster for $1,000, you'll embrace the time-honored solution for malfunctioning automotive clocks.

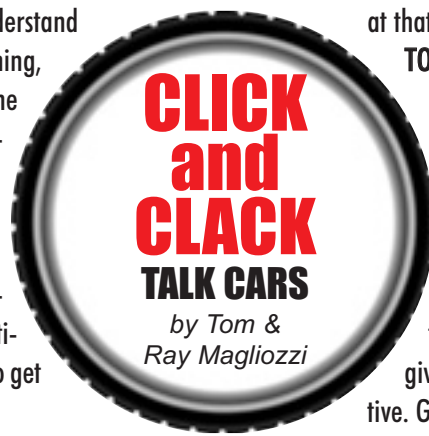

TOM: You'll go to the hardware store, and for four bucks, you'll buy yourself one of those stick-on digital clocks. You'll peel off the backing and slap it right onto the instrument panel, over where your current clock sits.

RAY: Now, it's possible that your entire instrument cluster is beginning to fail. If something crucial in the cluster stops functioning -- like the speedometer -- you may be forced to replace the whole thing at that point.

TOM: Or, if you're lucky, your regular mechanic will know one of the places that fixes these panels for a few hundred bucks, and he'll be able to send it out for you.

RAY: But I wouldn't bother just for the clock. Even if you're a Volvo owner and you're used to leaving the dealership with angina after seeing the estimate, that's a lot for a clock. Especially given the age of the car and the price of the alternative. Good luck, Lisa.

In their pamphlet "Should I Buy, Lease, or Steal My Next Car?" Tom and Ray break down the strategies for buying a car, so you can make the most of your money. Send $4.75 (check or money order) to Next Car, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Get more Click and Clack in their new book, "Ask Click and Clack: Answers from Car Talk." Got a question about cars? Write to Click and Clack in care of this newspaper, or e-mail them by visiting the Car Talk Web site at www.cartalk.com.

Notices Notice To Our Advertisers Counterfeit or fake checks are being used in a growing number of fraudulent schemes. Check overpayment scams target consumers selling cars or other valuable items through classified ads or online auction sites. Unsuspecting sellers get stuck when scammers pass off bogus cashiers checks, corporate checks, or personal checks. If you're selling something, don't accept a check for more than the selling price, no matter how tempting the offer or how convincing the story, especially if it is from an out of town buyer. Ask the buyer to write the check for the correct amount. If the buyer refuses to send the correct amount, return the check. Don't send the merchandise. If you think you've been targeted by a counterfeit check scam, report it to the Federal Trade Commission. Visit www.ftc.gov or call 1-877- FTC-HELP (1-877-382-4357) for more details or to report suspected fraud. This is a public service announcement brought to you by this newspaper. ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS FOR MURRAY STATE UNIVERSITY DRIVE EXTENSION

CITY OF HOPKINSVILLE (Owner)

A MANDATORY PRE-BID CONFERENCE to be held on: April 24th at 10:00 AM

A Mandatory Pre-Bid Conference will be held at Community and Development Services office located at the Lackey Municipal Building, 1st Floor, 101 North Main Street, Hopkinsville, Kentucky. Interested contractors are required to attend the Pre-Bid Conference or have a representative attend the Pre-Bid Conference.

Bid packets are available at the following location: Community and Development Services Lackey Municipal Building 101 North Main Street Hopkinsville, Kentucky 42240

There will be a $50.00 non-refundable fee associated with requesting a printed set of drawings from Community and Development Services.

All work to be undertaken as part of this project must be undertaken in accordance with all local, state and federal regulations and requirements. This project is being funded by the Commonwealth of Kentucky in cooperation with the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet. The successful contractor must be prequalified to perform work for the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet.

Sealed Bids for the Murray State University Drive Extension Project will be received at the offices of Community and Development Services. All proposals must be submitted to Steven R. Bourne, AICP, Director, Community and Development Services, 101 North Main Street, P.O. Box 1125, Hopkinsville, KY 42241-1125, prior to 10:00 A.M., May 3, 2012, at which time the bids will be publicly opened and read aloud. Packages must be marked – "Murray State University Drive Extension"

The Community and Development Services hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively assure that in any contract entered into pursuant to this advertisement, disadvantaged business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation and will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color or national origin on consideration for an award. Successful firms shall comply with all federal, state, and local MBE/DBE requirements applicable to this project.

The City of Hopkinsville, through Community and Development Services, reserves the right to reject any and all submissions and to waive any informality in any submission, if that action is in the best interest of the City of Hopkinsville, Kentucky.
